ASID VISION STATEMENT

ABOUT ASID VIRGINIA

ASID serves the full range of the interior design profession and practice through the Society's programs, networks, and advocacy. We lead interior designers in shared conversations around topics that matter: from evidence-based and humancentric design to social responsibility, wellbeing, and sustainability. We showcase the impact of design on the human experience and the value interior designers provide.

ASID was founded over 40 years ago when two organizations became one, but its legacy dates back to the early 1930s. As we celebrate nearly 85 years of industry leadership, we are leading the future of interior design, continuing to integrate the advantages of local connections with national reach, of small firms with big, and of the places we live with the places we work, play, and heal. More than 25,000 members engage in a variety of professional programs and activities through a network of 46 chapters throughout the United States and Canada.

The ASID Virginia Chapter is currently comprised of 300+ professional, allied, associate student and industry partner members and growing. Our chapter takes an active role in the Virginia design community by collaborating with other design focused organizations and six college programs. We communicate with our membership through our website, e-blasts and social media. We strive to educate and inform the public on the profession of interior design and meeting health, safety and welfare criteria with interior environments by choosing ASID designers and our Industry Partners.

The Society's 13,500 practicing interior designers work in all areas of commercial (66%) and residential (34%) design. Professional members of ASID must pass rigorous acceptance standards, including a combination of accredited design education and/or full-time work experience and passage of a two-day accreditation examination administered by the National Council for Interior Design Qualification (NCIDQ).
